Subject: waste confidence rule

the waste confidence rule is based on faith, not science. we haven't found an acceptable, safe means of disposing of radioactive waste from nuke plants in 40 years. how can the nrc possibly maintain that because there will be a solution, they don't have to guarantee safety in the future for storage of waste? that is ridiculous, irresponsible, and more evidence that the nrc does not have the safety of the public foremost in their leadership. scrap this rule and demand that any relicensing include adequate safe storage of waste products on site, since there is no plan otherwise. we would have had one by now if one existed. yucca mtn would have happened by now if the people in that state would allow it. no one in their right mind would allow a national repository on their land. stop this nonsense. decommission plants that cannot provide adequate storage on site.
