Hello Kathy,

As you requested, attached are the leak test certificates for our two nuclear density gauges (SN#:3694 & 2489) that were in storage at our McLean, VA location. As indicated on the certificates, both gauges passed the tests and are considered acceptable for use. As you indicated, these records will be used to demonstrate that our VA storage location may be considered closed without the need for any decontamination.

I will also send you hard copies of these records by mail for your files. Please feel free to contact me with any questions you may have or if you require additional information.

Best Regards,
Tom
