Mr. Burnell -

Facilities nearer the Levy nuclear power plant site that could host NRC public meetings include the Inglis Community Center, the Yankeetown Elementary School (with an auditorium and a gym), and the Yankeetown Woman's Club.

> Mr. Bright;
> The staff informs me the factors considered in selecting libraries to hold the environmental report included the population of the town, distance from the proposed nuclear plant, direction from the proposed nuclear plant, county library system and hours of operation for the library. The staff examined all of these factors and selected one library in a relatively large town that was > north, west, and south of the proposed nuclear plant.
> The NRC considered several facilities near the Levy County site to hold the public scoping meetings. The Plantation Inn was preferred because it met NRC's and the public's needs during the Public Outreach Meeting held in June 2008, and it is within a reasonable distance to the proposed Levy County site. It was not possible to reserve a conference hall at the Plantation Inn over the holiday season, so the Florida National Guard Armory was identified as a reasonable alternative to facilitate the public scoping meetings. NRC is open to > recommendations on facilities that can be used to accommodate public scoping > meetings in the Inglis-Yankeetown area.
