1.0 Introduction

This report documents the measurements, analyses and results from Spectral-Analysis-of-Surface-Waves (SASW) tests that were performed at 29 sites during four different site visits on the test fill in Vogtle, GA. It includes 29 appendices as follows:

- (1) Appendix A contains a map of the SASW test locations on the test fill. Also, a summary of  $V_s$  profiles for each site visit are included in this appendix.
- (2) Appendices B through Z contain the “raw” data (wrapped phase plots versus frequency) for Sites A through G for each site visit, respectively. However, the data of Site G of each site visit was combined into Sites A through F of the same site visit to obtain deeper  $V_s$  profiles. During fourth site visit, an additional SASW test was performed on the natural soil at Site H. In total, there are 25 appendices (B through Z) for the SASW measurements performed on the test fill. Each appendix contains the field data sheet, “raw data” from each SASW set-up, experimental field dispersion curve determined from the raw data, theoretical match to the experimental dispersion curve and resulting shear wave velocity profile for that test location.
- (3) Appendix AA contains the Calibration Documentation for Geophones and Agilent 35670A Dynamic Signal Analyzer.
- (4) Appendix AB contains the verification of the forward modeling procedure (WinSASW, version 1.23) performed to evaluate the  $V_s$  profile from each field dispersion curve. This verification is the one that was developed under the QA Requirements of the Yucca Mountain Project and is currently valid on that project.
- (5) Appendix AC contains a short discussion of the benefits and limitations of the SASW method.
