Randy,

FYI; see below about what we learned about the Michigan SHPO. Does this match with your understanding?

Thanks,
Steve Lemont

I spoke with a colleague in Michigan.

A state Executive Order has been signed (July 13, 2009; attached), recommending that the Michigan Department of History, Archives and Libraries be dissolved. This EO still has to be voted on by the Michigan state legislature.

If this happens, the Michigan SHPO, which is currently included in the Dept of HAL, will be administratively "moved" to the Michigan State Housing Development Authority. It is not likely that their office locations will actually move, although the library in which they are housed would be closed, so its not clear how this will work.

Supporting or similar state agencies (the Michigan Historical Commission, etc.) appear to be moving administratively to the Michigan Dept of Natural Resources.

I think nothing will change as far as Section 106 review for the project.

N.
