Note that I just talked to Burrows Smith, an individual that is planning a subdevelopment adjacent to the GE property. His first question was is the plant going to be safe. I told him it will have to meet our H&S requirements to get a license. I told him that GE has been operating a fuel fabrication facility at the site for 40 years with a good safety record and the fuel fab facility has similar hazards as the proposed enrichment plant.

I also told him to introduce himself to Christianne Ridge, who will want to discuss his plans for the land use section of the EIS. I told him that this is an important part of the EIS and we'd want to discuss this with him. He said he may not be ready to discuss all the details of his plans for public consumption, but he does want to provide some information.
