I intend to reply Yes. Any comments before I do?

Our schedule to become an Agreement State is Sept 2009, before the license is amended. I hope everyone realizes that this design will not meet NJ's decommissioning regulations where we assume complete failure of all institutional and engineering controls. In order to meet NJ regs, SMC will have to remove the slag pile. Has the NRC had any conversations with SMC regarding the impending change over?

Jenny,

It would be when all reviews are completed, which in this case would be when the EIS was issued.

Jack

Reviewing the staff's eight status report, I notice that the final EIS will not be issued until Nov 2009. At what point does the NRC amend SMC's license to a LTC license? I would assume it is after the final EIS is issued, is that correct?
