To: Director, Nuclear Regulatory Commission

OFFICE OF STAFF
RULEMAKING AND ADMINISTRATIVE STAFF

I was shocked to learn that the Nuclear Regulatory Commission is once more considering the deregulation of certain radioactive wastes, and may allow contaminated materials to be "recycled" for use in the consumer market.

This is morally depraved!

Putting radioactive substances into the consumer market where it may be used for consumer products of any type, or used for construction is a serious crime.

The scoundrels who actually entertain such concepts should be summarily fired and prohibited from participating in any decisions which affect the public health and safety.

Outraged!
