The U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) seeks support to maintain information at its public and internal Web sites. The NRC has committed to ensure this information is current and accurate. This task order enables the NRC Office of Information Services (OIS) to coordinate various publishing activities sponsored by several NRC program offices to support these Web sites. The OIS seeks to ensure all these activities result in Web sites that are efficiently maintained and free of duplication and meet NRC standards and management controls for organization and format.

The NRC is also required communicate with the public under the Communication Plan for Crisis and Significant Events. Making NRC response information available on NRC's Public Web is one of the means for communicating with the public.
