General Comment

Russia already supplies close to 50% of uranium used in the US reactors from the nuclear weapons stockpiles. Operating the uranium mines will create American jobs and increase the amount of domestic fuel supply for the US nuclear industry. The change of control should definitely be allowed as Russia proved itself as a reliable partner/supplier over the past 20 years.

Van,

Attached for docketing is a comment on a notice published on September 20, 2010 regarding a notice of application for an indirect change of control for a source license (75 FR 57300). I received this comment via the regulations.gov website on October 4, 2010.

Thanks,
Carol
