Dear Mr. Stuyvenberg,

I would like to thank the NRC for holding community meetings in San Luis Obispo last month. The meetings were filled with timely information, allowing our local community to participate in this important process.

In addition to providing carbon-free, efficient power to California, PG&E is a significant economic force in our County. It provides head-of-household jobs and crucial funding for local educational institutions through property tax payments. PG&E is an active corporate citizen, contributing to the support of community non-profits, both financially and through volunteerism.

I believe that it is vitally important that your analyses include these economic and social impacts. I look forward to reading the draft environmental document later this year.

Best regards,

Sharon G. Young
