Alan,

Thanks. It took some time and a lot of research but I think in the end it was clear that issuance of the permit was the proper decision.

As for the USACOE jurisdictional determination, I exchanged emails with their office a few days ago and they said that the determination should be complete by the end of July. They also said that they did not believe the USACOE had jurisdiction but they still need to complete their review before making a final decision. I will cross copy both you and Eldon Allison of BLM with any letters we receive back from regarding the decision.

Hope all is going well out east.

John

John,

Congratulations on receiving your UIC Permit for deep well injection of liquid effluents!

Have you heard anything from the USACOE about the jurisdictional determination of the ephemeral channels?
