General Comment

Commenting on the push for changes to 10 CFR 26 I believe the rules in place are good and that a company would use any relaxation in the rules to try to keep from staffing up the ranks. Smarter planning and scheduling would resolve some problems instead of just throwing manpower at the issue. Most of us are getting older as well. Rotating shifts with long hours and unplanned short notice overtime has impacted our homelife and health adversely. Burnout, alcoholism, divorce, all these things ultimately affect the worker in his job and can challenge public safety. I urge you not to relax the present rules as they are written. Thank you. A long time operator.
