APPENDIX A

DEFINITION OF MEETING

NRC's Statutory Meeting Requirement

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is a five-member independent regulatory commission established by the Energy Reorganization Act of 1974 (P.L. 93-408). It is responsible for ensuring the protection of the public health and safety through the licensing and regulation of the uses of nuclear materials. Section 201(a)(1) of the Energy Reorganization Act, 42 U.S.C. §5841(a)(1), provides that "[a]ction of the Commission shall be determined by a majority vote of the members present." In order to conduct meetings under the Government in the Sunshine Act, a quorum must be present.

Meetings Defined by Sunshine Act

The Commission's definition of "meeting" incorporates verbatim the Supreme Court's definition from FCC v. ITT World Communications, 466 U.S. 364 (1984) and is consistent with the approach endorsed by legal experts. The Commission defines "meeting" as:

the deliberations of at least a quorum of Commissioners where such deliberations determine or result in the joint conduct or disposition of official Commission business, that is, where discussions are sufficiently focused on discrete proposals or issues as to cause or to be likely to cause the individual participating members to form reasonably firm positions regarding matters pending or likely to arise before the agency. Deliberations required or permitted by §§9.105, 9.106, or 9.108(c) do not constitute "meetings" within this definition.

10 CFR §9.101(c), Government in the Sunshine Act Regulations

This definition would properly allow some discussions among three or more Commissioners in a non-public setting.

Under current Commission procedures, generally one agenda item is scheduled for each Commission meeting or briefing. Accordingly, for the purpose of tabulating meetings in this report, each session is counted as a separate meeting even if several sessions or briefings occur on the same day. Appendix B contains meeting statistics reported using the above definition and methods.
