Donna,

I do see the transfer for the I-129 source, thanks for getting back to me.

It was a gamma counter and the seeds were removed by the service contractor. It is listed on the service record included in the packet. But to be sure, when I return to my office Monday I will check the instrument and give you a call to discuss. Thank you.

Subject: terminating your NRC license

DIANON Systems

License No. 06-23655-01

Docket No. 030-29575

Control No. 574783

Donna,

Everything looks in order to terminate your NRC license.

I left a similar message on your voice mail, that I am checking on one related issue: if you possess a liquid scintillation counter (LSC) or a gamma counter, such instruments may contain a generally-licensed radioactive sealed source. You may continue to possess such sources in the instruments (if you have them) but you cannot sell/transfer such instruments if they have generally-licensed sources in them. Those sources can only be transferred for radioactive waste disposal, or to a manufacturer who is authorized to possess them under a specific license.

If you have such sources in such instruments, you should see a metal plate on the back of the instrument or inside the access panel, that has a radiation symbol and information about the source and the general license.

Please let me know if you have any such sources.

Thanks,
Betsy
