By the way, I am working from home most of this week to get something done. My home phone number and email are on my desk. I check phone and e-mail at work periodically, but it might be best to call me here.

Dennis, I appologize. I didn't get a call in number. However, I will come by an go over the items with you -I will not take long. With your extensive experience most of this will be basically a repeat of what you've basically know and have been through on other such meetings. The only think that is really new a brief overview of the neuances which I can tell go over with you in 5 minutes or so.

Also, Ive placed calls to AECOM to contact you and I, but so far they havent. I will be calling them again today (could be on travel).

Charles,

I have not heard back from you. I had asked for a call-in number. Were you going to call me from the conference room?
