Nicole,

I don't know what it is, but NRC has used it for a while. No doubt someone will fiddle with fonts at the end of the editing process.

By the way, in case he didn't copy you, Charles was OK with the literature citation change.

Dennis,
When we spoke you mentioned a new font. Do you know what that it? I can't seem to find a reference to it.
Thanks,

Subject: Editorial change in literature citations at the end of sentences

Charles,

I started discussing Steve Duda's sections with him. One small editorial error I pointed was in formatting for multiple literature citations. If we use the comma between the author and date (which almost no one but NRC does), two citations at the end of a sentence presently look like this: (AuthorA, 1991)(AuthorB, 1992). The NRC format has been : (AuthorA, 1991; AuthorB, 1992). I asked AECOM (Nicole) to change this throughout to match the format we use in the SEIS.
