RE: License 40-26938-01, Docket 030-30526

As Radiation Safety Officer on the above named license, I respond to the Notice of Violation as follows.

1. I was not aware that I was required to give a notice if there was a potential for a 24 month period of inactivity under this license. I was hoping to either use the device or sell the device and not sure I would've foreseen the '24 month period of inactivity.'
2. The corrective measures that have been made thus far are...
 - a. Inspection of Device at Home Location
 - b. Review Paperwork with Device, Copy papers with device for file at Office
 - c. Review of requirements tied to basic procedures
3. The corrective measures that will be taken are...
 - a. Renew license
 - b. Request a change for "Home Location"
 - c. Create map for new "Home Location" and post in shop and in container where device is to be located.
 - d. Review regulations and requirements
4. I expect to be in full compliance by August 31st 2012.

Dear RSO,

Enclosed are your badges for the 3rd quarter, 2012. Please look them over and email your changes to melindav@netsnukes.com.

Please gather all your 2nd quarter 2012 badges and return them to me by July 13, 2012. Any badges that are not returned to me by this date will be considered a lost/late badge and will be charged $25.00 per badge. This will also include any control badges not returned.

Badges for the 4th quarter 2012 will go into production by the manufacturer on August 9th. If changes are requested on or after this date, you will be charged for those badges for the 4th quarter of 2012.

If you receive any badges for employees who are no longer with your company, please hold onto them until the end of that quarter and return all badges together. However, please make sure you contact us to delete that employee.

If applicable, for any spare badges that were used, please fill out the enclosed form.

Also, due to problems with the US Postal Service, we suggest that all badges be returned to us via UPS or FedEx. If badges are sent by US mail and are lost, you will be charged for lost badges ($25.00 per badge).

If you have any questions, please call me at 410-751-5090 or email at melindav@netsnukes.com.

Thank you,
Melinda Verbus
