Subject: More time needed for Nuke Waste Decision

Dear Chairwoman Macfarlane:

The NRC just announced a single in-person environmental scoping hearing for November 14th, at its Rockville, Maryland headquarters and two webinar-only scoping hearings on Dec. 5th & 6th to fulfill a court-ordered environmental assessment of its "Nuclear Waste Confidence Decision and Rule." NRC's current deadline for public comments on its environmental scoping is January 2nd, 2013.

A two month period that includes both national election and major holidays is completely inadequate in light of the possible effects on human health and the environment in communities living in the shadows of high-level radioactive waste storage pools and dry casks.

As a concerned citizen, I believe your duty is not to proceed with this rush process, but to allow for full public disclosure, over as many hearings as these communities demand in order to document fairly and completely the public response to a potentially deadly hazard.

Respectfully,

Christine Roane
