General Comment

The public comment period is intended to promote democracy. In publishing its Notice of the beginning of its reexamination process, the NRC does just the opposite.

The Notice is vague, does not include possible alternatives to the NRC's proposed action as required by an EIS, and sets an impossibly short comment period, especially given the coming holidays.

I urge the NRC to withdraw its Notice, fix it along the lines mentioned above, and resubmit it with a comment period of at least sixty days.
