No. I thought we had to wait for your approval before transferring it (That's what I was asking) . I will call them today to see if they can pick it up tomorrow.

Your signature on NRC Form 314 certified that you have already transferred the gauge. Is it not true?

Ok. So I can go ahead and give them the machine?

No, you do not need our permission to transfer your gauge to anyone who has authorization (License) from NRC or an Agreement State to possess the model number of the device that you are transferring. As for the fee matters, Lynn Bates is the person to whom you should direct your inquiries.

REC'D IN LAT. 11/23/12

Sattar:

Please let me know when I would be able to transfer the gauge over to Constructora I Melendez? Do I have to wait for your approval?

I'm also working out a payment plan for the fees owed, Lynn Bates sent me a draft for the payment plan and we just want to confirm that there will be no other fees involved in this process since we notified the NRC before October 31st that we would be disposing of the gauge. We will agree to pay the $4,800 in fees owed as soon as the NRC confirms this.

Thanks again,

We received the leak test report and I'm including it along with form 314 in this email. I completed the form to the best of my knowledge, please let me know if there is anything I should change. I would also like to know how to proceed with the transfer of the equipment. Can I hand it over to Constructora Melendez right now or do I have to wait for the NRC's permission?

Yes, you can still transfer the license along with your gauge to any company provided the company assumes the responsibility of your license as is, and agrees in writing to abide by all commitments and conditions specified on your license. Please refer to Section 5 of NUREG 1556, Vol 15 for the documentation that you have to provide to NRC before you can be authorized to transfer the license. For fee matters you should directly contact Lynn Bates or Billy Belany at the numbers that I had included in my letter.

I thought you were going to transfer your gauge to Constructora I Melendez. That would have been the easiest method, but it is your choice. I am currently on official travel and that is the reason for delay in responding to your emails.

Hi Sattar:

The leak test was done on monday. I'm exploring the option of Paying my current fees and transferring ownership of the machine along with my license to someone else instead of terminating my license. Can it still be done?

As I mentioned to you earlier, you do not need to get NRC's permission to transfer the gauge. All you have to do is to:

1. Check if the recipient's current license authorizes the model of your gauge;
2. Leak test your gauge before transferring the gauge;
3. Keep a copy of the recipient's license; and then
4. Complete the NRC Form 314 to request termination of your license.

As for payment plan for the fees, please contact Lynn Bates or Billy Blaney in our Fees department. I have their numbers in my letter that I sent to you earlier. Good Luck

Just wanted to let you know that Constructora I Melendez has agreed to Accept our gauge. the have applied for an ammendment to their license for an extra gauge and once the ammendment is accepted by the NRC we will start the transfer process.
