General Comment

If Edison started the plant back up. Knowing that I am very close to the 10 mile mark, if there was a meltdown, worries me. If it is as bad of a meltdown as Fukoshima then, I would be in the uninhabitable area and I would not have my home. Everyone would have to either move to Mexico or go way north of LA. Even with the 10 mile radice, because of California Winds and how inland I live, I would automatically get hit with Radioactive air.
