1. I don't know exactly what you observed, but I know that force-on-force security exercises were being conducted last week. I suspect it was caused by simulation devices used during the exercises.

2. The BLEU Complex was a joint venture between NFS and AREVA. AREVA made a business decision to end the joint venture and move its processing equipment to its facility in Richland, WA.

Subject: Two Questions re: Nuclear Fuel Services, Erwin, TN

Kevin:

First Question:

On Tuesday evening, July 30, 2013 there were two loud explosions/booms at NFS, and smoke was associated with the first one. I was visiting a neighbor who lives nearby NFS. We heard a loud boom and went out on the porch and saw and smelled smoke coming from NFS. On Wednesday night, July 31, 2013 she said there was another loud boom, but she saw no smoke associated with that one. Do you know anything about these very loud explosions?

Second Question:

Why was BLEU shut down?

Thanks,
Barbara O'Neal
