Allison McFarlane

Dear McFarlane,

I am writing you because I am concerned about nuclear plants and nuclear waste. Unfortunately, I have had personal experience with this particular issue. I lived near Hanford Nuclear plant when I was young. It wasn't safe. I don't think these plants can be safe. My family is left with health problems resulting from having lived in the area. We are basically viewed as collateral damage or something. Nothing is done. Years go by. We pay the price and those who created and released the material that harmed us are allowed to just ignore what they have done, now leaving cleanup to be paid for mostly by taxpayers.

We don't really have a good, safe way to dispose of radioactive material. Transporting it is dangerous. Storing it is dangerous.

Frankly, we need to stop refining and using these materials. More than enough damage and waste has already been created.

Sincerely,

Lisa M. Turnbow

Sincerely,

Lisa Turnbow
