GEH replied to Notice of Violation (NOV) 052000010/2012-201-02 by stating that it would perform two corrective actions with a scheduled completion date of June 28, 2013. The second corrective action was completed by that date. The first corrective action, involving a specific evaluation of partial joint penetration welds to analytically determine fatigue margin for a replacement steam dryer, was subsequently re-scheduled to March 31, 2014 (References 5 and 6). This letter is to advise that GEH has now completed that evaluation and determined all components of the specific unit's replacement steam dryer remain qualified for operation at extended power uprate conditions.

Sincerely,

Jerald G. Head
