Facts & Info

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers began construction on the Herbert Hoover Dike in the 1930s.

The dike was built with gravel, rock, limestone, sand and shell that was dredged from the lake bottom – a design that was state-of-the-art in the 1930s.

Privacy & Security Notice

This Jacksonville District web site is provided as a public service by the Jacksonville District Corporate Communications Office and the Information Management Office.

Information presented on the Jacksonville District web site is considered public information and may be distributed or copied. Use of appropriate byline/photo/image credits is requested.

For site management, information is collected (see NOTE: below) for statistical purposes. This government computer system uses software programs to create summary statistics, which are used for such purposes as assessing what information is of most and least interest, determining technical design specifications, and identifying system performance or problem areas.

For site security purposes and to ensure that this service remains available to all users, this government computer system employs software programs to monitor network traffic to identify unauthorized attempts to upload or change information, or otherwise cause damage.

Except for authorized law enforcement investigations, no other attempts are made to identify individual users or their usage habits. Raw data logs are used for no other purposes and are scheduled for regular destruction in accordance with National Archives and Records Administration Guidelines. All data collection activities are in strict accordance with DoD Directive 5240.1 (reference (p))

Unauthorized attempts to upload information or change information on this service are strictly prohibited and may be punishable under the Computer Fraud and Abuse Act of 1986 and the National Information Infrastructure Protection Act.

If you have any questions or comments about the information presented here, please forward them to the Jacksonville District Corporate Communications Office.

NOTE: Below is an example of the information collected based on a standard request for a World Wide Web document:

xxx.yyy.com (or 123.123.23.12)-- this is the host name (or IP address) associated with the requester (you as the visitor). In this case, (...com) the requester is coming from a commercial address. Depending on the requester's method of network connection, the host name (or IP address) may or may not identify a specific computer. Connections via many Internet Service Providers assign different IP addresses for each session, so the host name identifies only the ISP. The host name (or IP address) will identify a specific computer if that computer has a fixed IP address.

[28/Jan/1997:00:00:01 -0500] -- this is the date and time of the request

"GET /www.saj.usace.army.mil/news/nr012797.html HTTP/1.0" -- this is the location of the requested file on the Jacksonville District web site
