Discussion:

The zip code of the licensee's mailing address in the renewal application was different from the one on the current license. The application also did not include a storage location currently listed on the license, and the application did not specify the number of CPN gauges. I called the licensee to discuss these items. The licensee stated that: (1) the zip code on the current license is correct and the application has a typo, (2) the storage location in Ponce was a project site that was completed a while ago and this site should be removed from the license. He confirmed that none of the gauges ever indicated leakage of RAM, and (3) that they had six CPN gauges and one Seaman Gauge.
