Public Meetings on Proposed Medical Isotope Production Facility for SHINE Medical Technologies, Inc.

On June 10, 2015, the staff held two identical public meetings at the Rotary Botanical Gardens in Janesville, Wisconsin, to discuss the preliminary findings of, and receive public comments on, the draft environmental impact statement (EIS) for the SHINE Medical Technologies, Inc. (SHINE) construction permit application for a medical isotope production facility. After weighing the environmental impacts and considering reasonable alternatives, the preliminary finding of this report is that the NRC staff recommends the issuance of the proposed construction permit to SHINE, unless safety issues mandate otherwise. Approximately 30 people attended each meeting. Public comments received focused primarily on accidents, alternatives, safety-related concerns, and opposition to the project. The public comment period closes on July 6, 2015. The staff plans to issue the final EIS in October 2015. In addition to the public meetings on the draft EIS, the staff held a government-to-government meeting that included approximately 30 local, State, and Federal officials. Officials asked many insightful questions regarding the safety, security, and environmental reviews related to the SHINE project.
