SUB-526, Docket No. 40-3392

RE: Draft Alternate Financial Assurance Documents

On February 5, 2016, Honeywell submitted a Notice of Intent to Obtain Alternate Decommissioning Financial Assurance to the NRC. In that notice, Honeywell explained that it no longer meets the financial test for using a self-guarantee and would be providing alternate financial assurance within 120 days. Honeywell also explained that it would provide the NRC with draft alternate financial assurance documents within 90 days. The self-guarantee will remain in effect until an alternate financial assurance mechanism is in place.

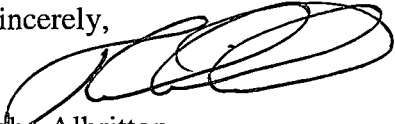

Honeywell intends to rely on letters of credit from six banks for decommissioning financial assurance. Each bank is regulated and examined by a Federal or State agency. The sum of the amounts of the letters of credit will meet the minimum decommissioning financial assurance amount, which is the currently-approved MTW decommissioning cost estimate ($197,354,356). Each letter of credit will follow the template in Section A.6.4, Model Letter of Credit, in NUREG-1757, "Consolidated Decommissioning Guidance: Financial Assurance, Recordkeeping, and Timeliness; Final Report," Revision 1. Honeywell has not included a draft of each letter of credit because the issuing banks have not requested alternate language or other deviations from the NRC's model letter of credit. Honeywell will finalize the letters of credit and provide the NRC with executed documentation by June 4, 2016.

Honeywell will also include an amendment to the existing standby trust agreement with its alternate financial assurance mechanism submittal. A draft of the proposed amendment to reflect the use of letters of credit and a change in the cost of the standby trust is attached.
