

EVERGLADESRESTORATION.GOV

Restoring America's Everglades

The Official Website

- How is Restoration Organized?
- Everglades Restoration Programs
- Progress Reports
- Calendars
- What's New

AMERICA'S EVERGLADES: CELEBRATING PROGRESS EVERY SEASON (FALL - WINTER - SPRING)

- C-44 GROUNDBREAKING - NOVEMBER 20, 2015
- A1 FEB RIBBON CUTTING - WINTER 2016
- SEEPAGE BARRIER OPEN HOUSE - JANUARY 2016
- L-8 FEB RIBBON CUTTING - SPRING 2016
- STA 1 WEST GROUNDBREAKING - SPRING 2016
- TAMiami TRAIL BRIDGE - APRIL 2016

What is Everglades Restoration?

The Everglades is recognized both nationally and internationally as one of the world's most unique natural and cultural resources. Encompassing nearly 18,000 square miles of the southern tip of the Florida peninsula the Everglades and the greater Everglades ecosystem (spanning from the Kissimmee River basin north of Lake Okeechobee all the way south to Florida Bay) are also the focus of the world's largest intergovernmental watershed restoration effort.

Read More

Popular Topics

Integrated Delivery Schedule (IDS)

Overall strategy and prioritization based on ecosystem needs, benefits, costs, funding... [\[More\]](#)

RECOVER: 2014 System Status Report

Provides an accounting of the Comprehensive Everglades Restoration Plan (CERP). [\[Read More\]](#)

Invasive Exotic Species (IES) Updated

Non-native plant and animal species. [\[Read More\]](#)

South Florida Ecosystem Restoration Task Force

Consists of members who are top level policy makers, representing tribal, federal, state, and local government, working together on the largest ecosystem restoration project in the world. [\[More\]](#)

Plants and Animals of the Everglades

Learn more... [\[Read More\]](#)

Upcoming Events

Click on date to add event directly to your calendar.

MAY 5	WATER RESOURCES ADVISORY COMMISSION MTG - Add to calendar - More About the Meeting
MAY 12	SFWMD GOVERNING BOARD MEETING - Add to calendar - More About the Meeting
MAY 18	BISCAYNE BAY REGIONAL RESTORATION COORDINATION - More About the Meeting