Re: Nine Mile Point Unit 1
Docket No. 50-220
DPR-63

Dear Mr. Eisenhut:

Your February 18, 1981 letter outlined the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's positions with respect to staffing level for emergency situations and implementation schedules for Emergency Support Facilities.

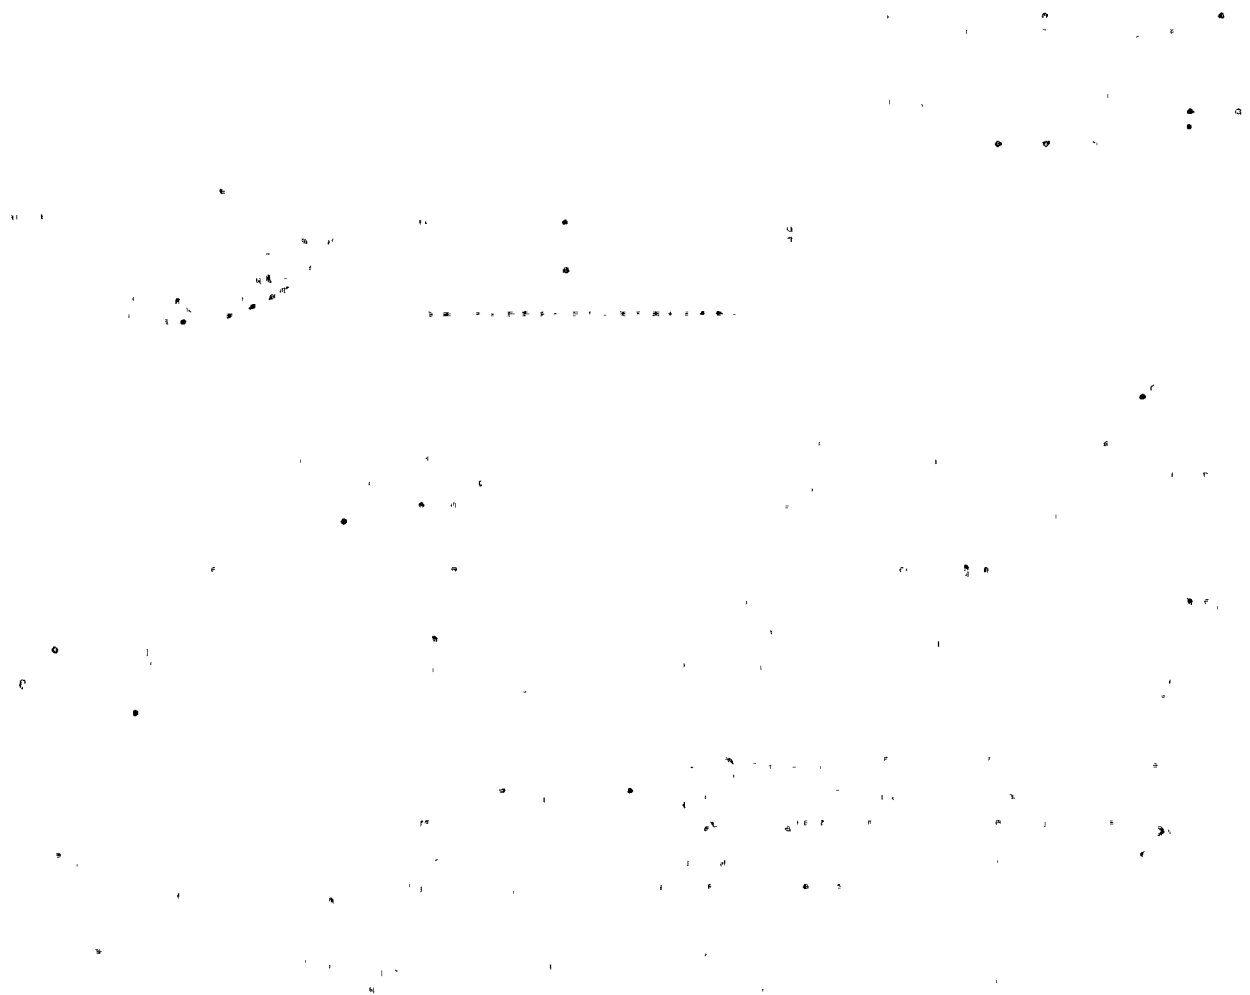

Niagara Mohawk's plans for staffing levels during emergency situations are outlined in our letter of March 3, 1981 and our Nine Mile Point Nuclear Station Site Emergency Plan which was submitted to you on December 30, 1980. Although our plans do not specifically meet all of your staffing requirements, we feel they are adequate to respond to potential emergency situations.

Although the Nine Mile Point Site Emergency Plan does not specify time requirements for implementing the staffing requirements of the Emergency Response Facilities, it is likely that site personnel would be at their respective positions within one hour. Corporate staff personnel would likely be at their respective positions within two hours. Niagara Mohawk has developed and continues to improve its call out procedure and use of direct communication devices for emergency response. It is expected that both FEMA and NRC will review and evaluate the effectiveness of our response capabilities during future emergency exercises.
