To the Nuclear Regulatory Commission:

Over the years I have learned much about nuclear waste from such experts as Rosalie Burtell. They convinced me that one of the chief problems with nuclear energy (and weapons) is its waste.

I realize that there are no safe ways to store this waste, yet we have it. One option that is totally not acceptable for its disposal is transporting it across the country. The risks are far too great.

Please ensure the Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) includes the risks of national transportation as well as the risks of the site becoming permanent by default. Include transportation methods, specific routes, and all their potential impacts in the Environmental Impact Statement.

In addition, I absolutely object to waste being stored in the land of Indian Americans. That adds insult and injustice to risk.

Of immediate concern: Please extend the public comment period on the scoping of the Environmental Impact Statement for WCS's application 90 more days. Communities along transport routes and those near the waste site need time to have their questions answered and the proper forum to provide their input.

Thank you for protecting our great country and everyone in it.

Sincerely,

Therese MacKenzie
