To the Nuclear Regulatory Commission:

I understand that Waste Control Specialists (WCS) has applied to store tons of irradiated nuclear fuel and high-level radioactive waste from nuclear reactors around the country in Andrews County, Texas. This is a terrible idea.

Private companies are not in business to ensure the public good. They exist to increase profitability and share that with family or shareholders. Private Texas firms such as Blackwater and Halliburton operated with impunity in Afghanistan and Iraq, responsible only to their bosses, not the US government or the governments of the countries in which they operated.

The meltdown of the Fukushima power plant run by TEPCO should also remind you that accidents do happen and a slow response by distant managers can turn a serious problem into a nuclear disaster.

It is YOUR job to protect American lands and people from these kinds of bad actors. Say no to WCS.
