General Comment

To the NRC and those reading public comments on the request of Waste Control Specialists to move nuclear waste from Vermont to Texas across the country. This comment is in response to FR Doc #2017-01966 and or in the alternative, NRC FR Doc 2016-0231: Include Transport in EIS.

Public officials at the NRC, your power is immense. You have the power to deny this request. Your role is one of safeguarding the public trust, and there are many who wonder, can you fulfill this obligation to our communities, to our families or to our children? You know the danger of transporting radioactive materials across the country and dumping them in Texas- what are you thinking? You are not putting safety of the community first-the transport is a potential disaster, any accident could put the public at an immense safety and economic risk.

And the recipients in Texas- from the multitudes of comments that I observed in this comment section- abhor the proposal- do not dump on me, they cry. What about their children, the little girls who are more susceptible to radiation. What about the future of the community. No-one wants this waste, and it should not be carted across the country, risking the lives and safety of the whole country- from coast to coast- this is a terrible idea. Reject it.
