To whom it may concern ;

As a resident of East Idaho I am grateful for the measures currently in place for the protection of my family and I in case of a nuclear accident. My family resides right between the Arco and Idaho falls locations. We think it is imperative to have established zones for safety and are glad for what is currently in place. The change of these rules and regulations to the plants that are coming to INL in shrinking the areas of testing and zoning are not safe. The new plants have not been tested and even if they were, in case of an accident, the distance of mandated evacuation and other precautions would save many, many lives. Our population around the east idaho area is increasing and more and more people would be exposed if we were ever to have a leak or a horrible accident. There is no reason to shrink the boundaries as this places the residents' safety first and not the convenience of the people in charge. Thank you.
