General Comment

I am a nuclear engineering and physics double major at Idaho State University, and have lived in the North West my entire life. I have no concerns about making the EPZ smaller for SMR and ONT systems around the country. There is no clear evidence that these large EPZ's are needed in the first place, and these newer designs have even less of a chance of causing problems.

I would live right on the edge of the site boundary with out fear, and would tell my family the same.
