General Comment

My stepson had thyroid cancer and had to endure radiation therapy, but that wasn't the worst part. The hospital required that he be released shortly afterwards. He didn't want to endanger his wife or cat, so he asked to stay with my wife and me. Because we also have cats, and I have an immunodeficiency, we did not want him to stay with us either. This has created a long-term rift in our family. If only the hospital had offered a longer post-treatment stay, our family would not have had to make this awful decision.
