RE: License Amendment Request for US NRC Exempt Distribution License 42-35093-01E and Exempt Device Registration Certificate NR-1385-D-101-E to change Address of Distribution Location.

Dear Mr. Herrera:

Techcomp USA Inc., DBA Scion Instruments, is submitting an amendment request to our US NRC distribution license 42-35093-01E, and device certificate NR-1385-D-101-E, in order to change the address location of distribution. This information is as follows:

1. The current US distribution location is 3019 Alvin Devane Suite 120, Austin, TX, 78741.
2. The new US distribution location is 7500 Rialto Boulevard, Suite 170, Austin, TX, 78735.

The intention of Techcomp is to establish the new address as of December 1st. 2017.

At the same time, we are sending the same request to the Radioactive Materials License from the State of Texas for possession of Electron Capture Detectors incident to exempt distribution. A copy of authorization and final contamination inspection for actual location, have been requested to address to your office.

We understand the implications of the change of address and the time it takes to re-establish the distribution process at the new location, but we had no alternative with the dates and acceptance of the lease by the new Landlord. At the same time, our intention to accomplish this effective procedure for January or February 2018 was truncated by the non-acceptance of extension of the current lease contract by the current landlord.

There have been no changes to the registered device or location of manufacture, which is still at Techcomp Europe in Goes (Netherlands) facilities.
