

systems were secured with chains and locks to prevent future occurrences of this type of event.