Jennifer,

c. Should the radiopharmaceutical manufacturer be able to provide the preceptor attestation? Provide a rational for your answer. Yes, the manufacturer has the ability to train the Physician in the proper use and the correct procedures to use. There is no rub my back I will rub your back relationship as in the preceptor attestation

e. Should AU competency be periodically assessed? If so, how should it be assessed, how often, and by whom? Yes, there should be a minimum number of procedures that the physicians do over a period of time IE 10 over a three year period. Nothing makes me more nervous than a physician that does a procedure IE SRS once every three years there is always that learning process and in my opinion the competency is not there
