Hi Ted – additional information provided by Kewaunee. It might be worth reaching out to the new director of the KCEDC. The article below was the effort that kicked off shortly after they announced shutdown. Rhex

Rhex,

Here's a link to the Kewaunee County Economic Development Corp:

<http://kcedc.org/>

Also they did do an economic analysis of the impact of KPS shutdown:

Per their website it looks like they have a different Executive Director now (Richard Baker).

Rhex,

A community engagement panel has not been established. Our periodic outreach to the Town, Counties, etc. leads us to continue to conclude that such a panel is not being pushed for by the community or the State. On the topic of economics, Dominion settled a property tax lawsuit with the Town and County in 2017, with an agreement that runs through tax year 2026.

Our outreach to the community consists of more informal drop-ins with the Town (occasional board meetings, or to discuss work activities here, such as taking down the training building – aside – this activity requires a permit from the Town, so they know about it anyway, but we attempt to engage them). Also in the EP area we reach out to the counties periodically. Same with Fire Protection with the Kewaunee Fire Department and Security with the Sheriff. As well as RP with the State.

Hi Bill,

I believe I know the answer, but I need to double check, are you aware of any decommissioning community advisory boards or panels in the vicinity of Kewaunee? I recall there was an economic development effort shortly after shutdown, but I don't know whether this group is still active. Also, do you happen to have points of contacts with any group that may have been involved as a community advisory panel or economic development? Thanks for the help,
Rhex
