To whom it may concern:

They have a radioactive leak - from a nuclear plant on Three Mile Island, and we find out three days later, we also find out that radiation can cause cancer, or even damage to newborn babies. Now I know that there was a close call, for if there had been an explosion, I could have lost my life as well as my family and friends.

A Radioactive hydrogen bubble which unaccountably formed, thereby contaminating a large area around the plant with a deadly cloud of radiation, there's only one thing I really have to say, they had better hope that Harman does what they want him to do, or they're in big trouble, they're really got the people in an uproar. We don't need this extra headache. We've got enough problems with the price of gas! and now we have to worry about our milk if it's contaminated or not. There had better be something done, if they don't, we will find
