PROPOSED RULE PR Chap 1 (53 FR 49886)

October 31, 1989

To Whom It May Concern,

I am a student at Northwestern University and a resident of Wisconsin. Next year I will vote for the first time. I am an ardent reader of the Chicago Tribune. Recently, I was truly frightened by a headline.

Restrictions concerning the danger level of nuclear waste should not be changed. It scares me that companies, such as Common Wealth Edison, are powerful enough to make it an issue worth considering.

I feel that no amount of human produced radiation is "below regulatory concern." Their argument that the lowering of regulations will decrease cost to the consumer is ridiculous. No monetary cost could ever be worth any harm that would come to my future children because the water they drink is not safe.

I am not a taxpayer yet, but I will be. And I believe my generation has the right to demand a safe, clean world. We want our children to grow up healthy. Until we are able to take our place as the caretakers of this planet, it is your responsibility to do so. We are trusting you with our future. Do not betray us.

Sincerely,

Army Much
