Gentlemen:

Enclosed please find a copy of a letter sent to your office in Middletown, Pennsylvania. I am sending this additional copy in the event that the original letter is lost or otherwise misplaced.

For too long the American people have put up with bureaucratic committees such as yourself making decisions for them from thousands of miles away. I was in Harrisburg this past Saturday to register my opposition to nuclear energy and I spoke to many residents of the area. The mood of the people was pretty much the same - they are fed up with the lies and with living with the threat of TMI hanging over them. I know I, and millions of others throughout this land, will continue to support these people in demonstrations against nuclear energy and for a clean, safe, non-nuclear world.

A reply to this letter would be appreciated.

Yours truly,

James Capaldi
