Honorable Joseph Hendrie,
Chairman
Nuclear Regulatory Commission
Washington, D.C.

Dear Commissioner Hendrie:

I am writing to inquire why it will require, as you have estimated, 18 to 24 months to make a decision on whether or not to let the undamaged Three Mile Island I unit resume operation. Why must a decision take so long while it's costing GPU and its patrons an additional $14 million per month for mostly oil-fired replacement power?

Sincerely,

Philip A. Anderson
