Members of the N. R. C.:

I am writing regarding the "Scrap Metal Regulation", and to tell you that I am greatly opposed to any regulation of this type. It is obvious that you people are only concerned with the monetary gain and not the lives of innocent citizens. It is a shame that officials of the United States are more concerned about $41.6 million dollars than with the safety of the people that put them into office.

It is my belief that the regulations on the handling of contaminated metals and materials should be more strickly enforced, I strongly feel that it is your job as regulators to see that the regulations and laws are followed, not changed.

Sincerely,

Beth Roush
