

Mr. James J. Henry
Office of Standards Development
U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission
Washington, D.C. 20555

December 26, 1980

Dear Mr. Henry:

I am a filmmaker in New York City. I am vehemently opposed to the proposed exemption from licensing requirements for smelted alloys containing residual technetium-99 and low enriched uranium. The proposal would allow the spread of radioactive scrap metal throughout the products we use every day.

This nightmare is being introduced secretly so that most of the public would not even know it was happening to them. This change in licensing requirements cannot be allowed to happen.

I violently object.

Sincerely,

Joan Franklin
240 West 98 Street, 5C
New York, New York 10025

LAH-17430

8102270 363