Submittal of Systems, Structures and Components Screening Methodology
for License Renewal

Desk, dated March 2, 1993, Submittal of Systems, Structures and Components Screening Methodology Documents for License
Renewal

Gentlemen:

As described in Reference (a), the following documents are submitted for NRC review and approval:

Component Level Important to License Renewal (ITLR) Screening Procedure for Systems

Component Level ITLR Screening Procedure for Structures

Component Level ITLR Screening Results (Note that only the results for Reactor Coolant, Compressed Air, Saltwater, and Containment Systems are being submitted)

The combination of these documents plus those submitted by Reference (b) is Volume 1 of 2 of our Integrated Plant Assessment Methodology. Baltimore Gas and Electric Company is concerned about the large level of detail produced by the component level screening. We have developed alternate summary results which meet the intent of the rule and SECY 93-049, "Implementation of 10 CFR Part 54, 'Requirements for Renewal of Operating Licenses for Nuclear Power Plants.' " These alternate summary results are available for your review. We believe this concern can be resolved during your review.

Please note that Reference (b) submitted two binders. One binder titled, "Integrated Plant Assessment Methodology Volume 1: Systems, Structures and Component Screening" contained the Screening Methodology and the Systems/Structures Screening Procedure. The other binder was titled as, "System and Structures Important to License Renewal Screening Results." However, throughout the methodology, it is referred to as, "Attachment C, CCNPP Systems and Structures Important to License Renewal." We regret any confusion caused by this error.

Should you have any questions regarding these documents, we will be pleased to discuss them with you.

Very truly yours,
