

SERVED FEB 7 1985

Dear Mrs. Hoyt; I would like to enforme you that there are people here in Bucks County who will not provide emergency services incase of Limerick Power Plant going into a nuclear emergency. They are mentioned in the emergency evacuation plan.

Philadelphia Electric Co. is unrealistic if it thinks that people will follow instructions incase of an accident. I am sure that parents would rush to schools that are in danger to remove their children. More than likely the routes the parents would take could be the emergency exit routes. This would cause massive traffic jams. The result would be that fire equipment, police and ambulances would not be able to respond. The end result would be the rescue of contaminated people would be deferred.

The facilities that are proposed are inadequately stocked with supplies. The decontamination procedures mentioned in the evacuation plan is a farce when in reference to the farmers. Tell me where are the people who remove the decontaminated soil put the soil?? Would it be buried?? What about decontaminated cow's milk, where will it go?? How long is a farmer expected to purchase feed, water for his animals before he or she goes broke? These points are just part of the environmental/emotional impact to the people in danger. The economics aspects involved have not been realized or studied if Limerick Power Plant goes on line with full power. Most businesses in Lower Bucks are already under financial strain. The raise in rates that would happen if Limerick went on line could cause businesses to close. In result the people dependant on those jobs would be left off.
