SUBJECT: PRAIRIE ISLAND 1 PEAK FUEL PELLET EXPOSURE (OELD # 838 072)

The package is okay as far as it goes. We're returning it with some editorial changes by Mike Wilcove marked on the package. In addition to this, we need to add something. The basis for the no significant hazards determination discusses only the fact that there is no increase in consequences of previously analyzed accidents. You need to identify and discuss at least briefly why this does not change the probability of an accident or result in any significant change in any safety margin. All three are part of the example as well as the standards and you have to indicate why there is no significant effect on any of the three elements -- consequences, probability and margins.
